

Cecilia Neal

It is 25 years since Cecilia Neal set up her interior design practice, Meltons, and business remains brisk. Clients clearly respond to Cecilia's assertion that, 'The finished scheme must be inspirational with a touch of magic - above all, it must exceed the client's expectations.' Attention to detail has always been a feature of Cecilia's design philosophy and, although she has a strong backup team to assist, she likes to oversee all contracts personally. She undertakes extensive projects, often working closely with an architect; beautifully detailed joinery, timber flooring and custom-designed furniture often feature. Current projects span everything from a Grade I-listed town house in Edinburgh and the redecoration of a plantation house in the Deep South, to the combination of two Mayfair flats to form a duplex and the design for a new house in Hungary. Cecilia enjoys creating rich, warm, elegant interiors and, having studied history of architecture and fine and decorative arts, is happy to advise clients on antiques, too.
